

THE COCONINO SUN.

Tom Drum came in yesterday from Phoenix. While in the Salt River valley he bought a number of fine milch cows for his ranch at Stoneman's lake. He will remain on his ranch and raise produce for the Flagstaff market.

Gwynne Dennis spent several days here during the week. Mr. Dennis expects to leave Williams this week for New York in the interest of the Santa Fe & Grand Canyon railroad and the smelter proposition. He will be absent about four weeks.

The job printing department of THE COCONINO SUN is just a little bit ahead of any other office in Northern Arizona. The latest fashions of type, borders and rules are to be found in the office. The class of work turned out is as good as the best to be obtained in any city office.

J. W. Thurber left Thursday for Blake, Cal., where he has a grading outfit at work on the Santa Fe Pacific. He expects to be absent until April 1. At that date, if the condition of the roads will permit, he will commence getting ready to put on the Grand Canyon and Flagstaff stage line.

J. L. Byrnes, of Milton, took a swift ride behind a runaway team one day this week. The ride was enjoyed by Mr. Byrnes, but the sudden stop was the unpleasant feature, and now he uses a cane as he hobbles around and has many places on his body to which he makes frequent applications of liniment.

Yesterday morning there was fourteen feet of water in the Santa Fe Pacific water tank at Angell. This tank is connected with the pipe line that runs to the Walnut canyon reservoir, and the reservoir is overflowing and that means that it has forty feet of water in it. Water hauling to Angell by the railroad company for some months to come will be abandoned.

M. M. Fisher, J. H. Morse, George Morse and J. C. Church returned Saturday from a two weeks' prospecting trip along the Little Colorado river north of Black Falls. They were in search of the yellow metal and expected to find placer ground, but were disappointed in not finding anything of any value.

This section was visited by an electrical storm Wednesday night, an unusual event for this season of the year. Heavy thunder and vivid flashes of lightning accompanied the fall of rain, which turned to hail and sleet as it fell. The storm lasted for half an hour, although rain fell at intervals during Wednesday and Thursday.

Deputy Sheriffs Fairchild and Black left yesterday for Tuba City to destroy a reservoir and dam recently built by the Navajo Indians. An injunction was obtained in the District Court last year restraining the Navajos from interfering or diverting the water at that place from the whites, who have used it for irrigation purposes for the past twenty years.

Mr. F. C. Reid, of Flagstaff, gave a strong sound gospel sermon at the Baptist church on Sunday evening from the text: "We Would See Jesus." Mr. Reid is a pleasant speaker and will always be sure of a good audience in Phoenix. His unanswerable logic and earnest appeals will not soon be forgotten. The pastor, Dr. Halsey, and Rev. George Brewer, of Clinton, Iowa, also took part in the services and the orchestra gave a well rendered selection as an offertory. At the morning service Dr. Halsey preached on "John, the Forerunner," and Mrs. Clark gave a well-rendered solo. — Phoenix Gazette.
